The ecological perspective is a contextual approach which works at the interface between families and the broader ecology or ecosystem of the child; the approach is not new but has not been widely adopted due to the lack of illustrative material available for practitioners. Through an approach more descriptive and explanatory than empirical, the author shows the clinician (or other child care professional) why the child's environment is crucial and provides techniques to draw people in the child's environment into the healing process.

Presents an overview of the latest information on various topics in psychology, such as cognition, motivation, learning, memory, and abnormal psychology.

This book approaches the field of positive psychology from a post-modern perspective. It explores the consequences of combining current trends and models with supplementary participatory and transformative methods. The book brings a more collective, qualitative, culturally sensitive and transformative approach to the processes of making sense and implementing the science of positive psychology. It moves beyond the individual level towards a “knowledge community” and “knowledge of the communities”. The book is an invitation to more participatory and polyphonic dialogues in the field of positive psychology.

Many factors in the world today, such as globalization and a rise in immigration, are increasing the need for mental health practitioners to acquire the ability to interact effectively with people of different cultures. This text will be the most comprehensive volume to address this need to date, exploring the history, philosophy, processes, and trends in counseling and psychotherapy in countries from all regions of the globe. Organized by continent and country, each chapter is written by esteemed scholars drawing on intimate knowledge of their homelands. They explore such topics as their countries' demographics, counselor education programs, current counseling theories and trends, and significant traditional and indigenous treatment and healing methods. This consistent structure facilitates quick and easy comparisons and contrasts across cultures, offering an enhanced understanding of diversity and multicultural competencies. Overall, this text is an invaluable resource for practitioners, researchers, students, and faculty, showing them how to look beyond their own borders and cultures to enhance their counseling practices.

'Nicholls boek is een zuivere biografie, vol met zorgvuldig onderzochte en soms weinig bekende feiten, meesterlijk door ineengevlochten. Vanaf de eerste bezoeken aan de plaatsen waar Leonardo's vroegste jeugd zich heeft afgespeeld tot het relaas van zijn laatste jaren in Frankrijk is Nicholl uiterst gevoelig voor alles dat ons in aanraking kan brengen met de mens Leonardo. Hij wil die dingen weten die haast onmogelijk zijn om te weten te komen en die zo bij iemand horen: hoe sprak hij, hoe gedroeg hij zich, hoe betuigde hij zijn liefde, wat voor gevoel voor humor had hij? (Leonardo schijnt graag moppen verteld te hebben, die nogal plat zijn opgeschreven in zijn aantekenboeken [...]) Meer biograaf dan kunstcriticus spendeert Nicholl niet veel tijd aan de schilderijen en tekeningen, hij gebruikt ze hooguit om aanwijzingen uit te putten om Leonardo's leven te reconstrueren.' This book is about the author's personal experiences of the insanity of everyday living and her experiences as a black person and a woman. She has written it in a way that is meant to be engaging. Barbara opens up and invites her reader to experience her life through prose, narration and poetry. In inviting you, the reader, into conversation with her, she hopes to create and encourage dialogue on many fronts.

This book pays special attention to women and children's issues, cross-cultural counselling, traditional African beliefs and customs, community home-based care, orphan care and care for the caregiver. Practical advice is offered on how to care for people with AIDS in health care settings with limited resources, facilities and finances, such as those we find in many rural clinics and homes in Africa.

In almost 60 articles this book reviews the current state of second-order cybernetics and investigates which new research methods second-order cybernetics can offer to tackle wicked problems in science and in society. The contributions explore its application to both scientific fields (such as mathematics, psychology and consciousness research) and non-scientific ones

(such as design theory and theater science). The book uses a pluralistic, multifaceted approach to discuss these applications: Each main article is accompanied by several commentaries and author responses, which together allow the reader to discover further perspectives than in the original article alone. This procedure shows that second-order cybernetics is already on its way to becoming an idea shared by many researchers in a variety of disciplines. Europe, Latin America, and North America. Instructors of cross cultural, cultural, and international psychology and of multicultural education will be especially interested in the book, as will program evaluators, policy makers, and university administrators.

Using current socio-political thought and research, this book examines topics such as violence, social and political transition, race and racism, and sexualities. Theoretical and empirical research are related to topical problems, highlighting the complex relations of individuals to their societies and to one another. The histories and complexities of problems and their interconnectedness are examined, and possible solutions are suggested. Special attention is paid to class, sexuality, gender, and race, making psychology in general, and social psychology in particular, relevant and exciting.

This collection of modular study units for first-level psychology students provides core information about specific topics with units that work independently of each other and can be interchanged or omitted as needed. It includes chapters on cognition, stress management, the human nervous system, interpersonal relationships, and personality.

"e;The subject of the Belhar Confession is an academic one which has enjoyed international attention, with congregations in the West having adopted it as one of their confessions for use. The content of this book is aimed chiefly at a scholarly community with ample knowledge of confessional documents and is a contribution on the subject of the Belhar Confession. The current challenges to the church and theology are discussed. Racism is one issue that poses an increasingly huge challenge to South Africa today. The book demonstrates what needs to be done extra to deal with the scourge of racism that seems to have percolated through virtually all aspects of our existence and particularly the church today in South Africa."e; - Prof.

Offers an evolutionary theory of personality, connecting the conceptual structures of personology with its foundations in the natural sciences. The author presents a unified approach to personality theory, addresses personality disorders and considers therapeutic interventions.

"At once evocative and suggestive, this exemplary book gives me hope that educators and scholars across the world will seize the opportunity to self-reflect and enlarge and enrich both their research and their practice in ways that will markedly contribute to the revitalisation of the higher learning in the twenty-first century. The urgency of the need for revitalisation of both research and practice in this domain of inquiry cannot be overstated." Prof Clifton Conrad ? University of Wisconsin-Madison, USA

In To be a man behandelt Robert Augustus Masters levensvragen waar mannen mee worstelen. "Ik heb alles: een mooi huis, een goede baan, een leuke vrouw en lieve kinderen, waarom ben ik dan toch zo ontevreden?" "Hoe kan ik krachtiger overkomen, zonder dat anderen mij meteen een eikel vinden?" "Waarom lukt het me maar niet om gelukkig te zijn in mijn relaties?" Antwoorden of oplossingen zijn niet altijd gemakkelijk, maar ze zijn er wel: mannen moeten hun 'gevecht' naar binnen - in zichzelf - verplaatsen. Ze moeten het niet meer zoeken in verslavingen, agressie of porno. Alle pijn, schaamte en schaduw uit het verleden moet eerst vanbinnen worden opgelost. Pas daarna kunnen hoofd, hart en verlangens weer in balans zijn. Robert Augustus Masters geeft daartoe in dit boek handvatten, voorbeelden en oefeningen.

In Personality and Psychopathology, Millon provides the reader with a coordinated series of papers that illustrate his unprecedented model for building a unified science of personology and psychopathology. In this effort, he seeks to integrate previously disparate components into a clinical science. Rather than developing independently and being left to stand as largely unconnected functions, Millon argues that a truly mature clinical science will embody explicit: 1) theories, that is, explanatory and heuristic conceptual schemes that enable the development of a formal 2) nosology, a taxonomic classification of disorders that is devised logically from the theory and which permits the development of coordinated 3) instruments, tools that are empirically grounded and sufficiently sensitive quantitatively to enable the theory's hypothesis to be adequately investigated, and from which target areas can be specified for 4) interventions, strategies and tactics of therapy designed in accord with the theory.

Het leven is een aaneenschakeling van onderhandelingen. Van kleine dagelijkse beslissingen tot de grote momenten in je leven: je onderhandelt elke keer als je iemand probeert te overtuigen, als je een besluit neemt of een conflict probeert op te lossen. Erica Ariel Fox is specialist op het gebied van onderhandelen en leiderschap en betoogt in dit boek dat de belangrijkste onderhandelingen in het leven de onderhandelingen zijn die je met jezelf voert. Want vaak is er een groot verschil tussen dat wat we doen en zeggen en dat wat we zóúden willen doen en zeggen. Fox noemt dit de 'Performance gap' en ze laat zien hoe je hiermee om kunt gaan: of je nu te maken hebt met een stellige baas of een lastige klant, een eigenwijs kind of een partner met een andere mening. De oplossing is namelijk vaak dezelfde: leer eerst jezelf te overtuigen. 'Het grootste probleem in onderhandelingen is niet de tegenpartij. Je bent het zelf. De kracht van dit boek is dat het ons leert naar binnen te kijken en zo onszelf te leren begrijpen.' – William Ury, coauteur van Excellent onderhandelen (Getting to Yes) 'Er zijn maar weinig boeken die de taal van het zakenleven en de taal van persoonlijke groei zo overtuigend combineren als dit baanbrekende boek.' – Doug Stone, coauteur van Moeilijke gesprekken

Multicultural counseling is a dynamic field, one that continually changes to reflect shifting social norms and to serve an increasingly diverse and globalized population. There is a growing need for counselors and psychotherapists who are sensitive and inclusive not only in regard to race, culture, and ethnicity, but also in matters related to gender, age, sexual orientation, disability, and class. Inspired by the pioneering work of Clemmont E. Vontress, the contributors to Counseling across and beyond Cultures trace the evolution of multicultural counseling and discuss remaining challenges for practitioners. Essays include personal reflections by Vontress himself, assessments of developments in multicultural counseling, evaluations of Vontress's influence in Canada and the United Kingdom, and African and Caribbean perspectives on his work. Throughout, the volume offers historical, philosophical, and critical analysis of Vontress's accomplishments in the light of the changing epistemologies of multicultural counseling and psychotherapy.

as a foundation for the theories, approaches and techniques applied in practice by its contributors. Various essays from European-based practitioners in the fields of psychology, psychotherapy and counselling are included here. These authors draw scientific knowledge from the fields of psychology and psychotherapy, focusing on intra-psychic aspects of human functioning, such as emotions, drives and cognitions, as well as interpersonal and ecosystemic functioning. In addition to this, the authors consider spirituality as an intrinsic part of humanity through which persons seek meaning and transcendence and that influences physical and mental health. Spiritual insight is gained from the field of theology with specific reference to the Christian faith tradition. As a wide range of topics, contexts and cultural and ecumenical backgrounds are covered in this book many practitioners in mental health care and counselling should benefit from the knowledge, ideas and practical experience shared here.

Can science, psychology, and biology explain miracles? This three-volume set attempts to answer that question, presenting the latest, as well as classic, thinking and research regarding miracles from fields that include psychology, psychiatry, theology, biology, and history. We have all heard of what seem miraculous events, which have surfaced across history. They range from stigmata and bleeding icons to deadly tumors that disappear and healers who succeed just by laying hands on the afflicted; from people who can predict unexpected events to so-called mediums and those who can allegedly see and speak with the dead. These books, led by an eminent scholar who serves as series editor for the Praeger series Psychology, Religion, and Spirituality, examine miracles of body, mind, and spirit, presenting the most recent research and writing on these uncommon events, aiming to bring hard science to some of the most persistent and peculiar phenomena associated with the human race. Can science, psychology, and biology explain miracles? This three-volume set attempts to answer that question, presenting the latest, as well as classic, thinking and research regarding miracles from fields that include psychology, psychiatry, theology, biology, and history. From news of a crippled woman who left her wheelchair and walked after an evangelist prayed over her, to stories of people who died on the operating table only to be revived to tell of bright lights and the pathway to the afterlife, we've all heard of what seem miraculous events. They have surfaced across history. They range from stigmata and bleeding icons to deadly tumors that disappear, and healers who succeed just by laying hands on the afflicted; from people who can predict unexpected events to so-called mediums and those who can allegedly see and speak with the dead. Some miracles are intricately tied to religious beliefs, but there are millions of people who ascribe to no particular religion, yet still believe that things happen that defy all laws of nature, and thus defy scientific explanation. In these books, eminent scholar J. Harold Ellens and his team of expert contributors examine miracles of body, mind, and spirit, presenting the most recent research and writing on these uncommon events as they aim to bring hard science to some of the most persistent—and peculiar—phenomena associated with the human race.
